STUDENT TELEVISION NETWORK ANNOUNCES 2019 NATIONAL CONVENTION 3,000 Broadcast Journalism and Film Students to Convene in Seattle

CARLSBAD, CA – Student Television Network, a non-profit international association of high school and middle school broadcast journalism, film and media programs, has announced plans for the 2019 Convention in Seattle, Washington.

The convention brings together students and teachers for four days of education, interaction and competition. This will be STN's 16th Annual Convention and the expected attendance will be more than 3,000. The goal of the convention is to network students and teachers with professionals who can share real life experience and advice.

The theme for 2019 is FIND YOUR TRUE NORTH, which highlights the goal of discovering your core of values, preferences, beliefs and boundaries while sharing evidence of them in visual storytelling.

The convention will begin on Thursday, March 28 with the grueling Crazy 8s contests, where teams will produce video entries on a strict eight-hour deadline. Over the course of the convention, students will also have the opportunity to participate in more than 50 sessions, where they learn industry knowledge from current professionals. Students are also encouraged to enter one of the 30 individualized contests for small teams that cover reporting, creative and technical skills. Every entry receives professional feedback, critique, and scoring.

"We are so excited to be bringing our convention to Seattle where the city is alive with history and visual content." said Nancy Held Loucas, CEO. "We are proud to welcome students from the U.S. and abroad to share the art of visual storytelling and set an example of understanding and unity. We invite schools from around the world to join us."

Student Television Network welcomes interested parties in attendance, exhibits, sponsorships, speakers, contest judges, and volunteers for the convention.
